Coming Trends at the show:

Our third trend is named "FUTURE MOVEMENT" :

Air – Space

The gaseous environment - breathing

Long-term vision - Innovation

We have all been struck by the purity of the sky whilst the whole world has been in lockdown. Our cities have undergone something akin to a "renovation", the animal world has reclaimed its rights and has appropriated territories where Man was once King. This cleansing has had an effect on our awareness, showing us that we need to respect our natural environment and plan our future without destroying everything.

We can't stop progress, but we must change our approach, have more consideration for our surroundings, preserve nature as a whole and try to discover what is essential to life. It is our duty to adapt our industrial processes and focus on trying to respect our environment. We must be proactive instead of hyperactive, reduce our consumption, produce less, but better. What we need to do is promote limited editions, the close relationship with the product, modernise it by making it more functional, smarter, simpler, durable, practical and aesthetic.

The key to this theme is research. Research into air filtration technology, coatings, textiles inspired by cosmonaut outfits and all the textile developments that result from it.
