SPINEXPO™ THE KEY DIRECTIONS FOR AW 2024 YARNS

Unusual animal fibers,
undyed color palettes and wild pelts
inspire new developments for colder months.

VERTEX - 20% YAK

AN EVOLUTION OF ANIMAL
FIBRES

ZHONGDING CAMEL

Animal fibres like yak, llama, alpaca, and raccoon are sought after, especially in their natural colours without any dyeing process.

These fibres offer unique characteristics,
such as warmth, softness, and natural variations in colour, appealing to consumers who value natural and sustainable materials.

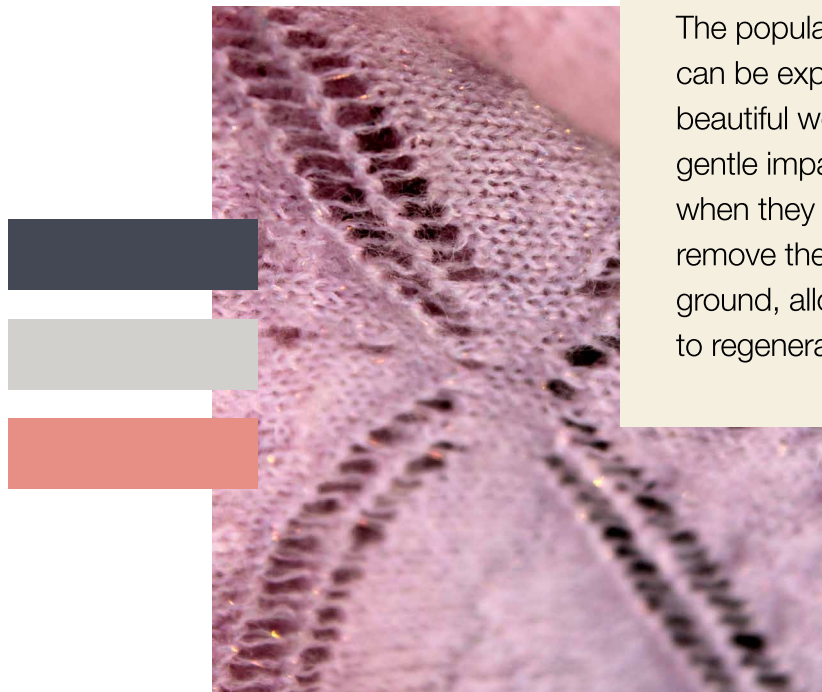

M.ORO - 100% YAK

The yak seems to be especially popular for future developments, with some of the mills developing partnerships with local headers to support them and provide training for future farming generations. The popularity of the Yak can be explained in its beautiful wool as well as their gentle impact on the earth; when they graze they don't remove the roots from the ground, allowing the land to regenerate much quicker.

ZHONGDING - RACCOON

SHI KWAN - 15% BABY ALPACA
