The new exhibition sites in Paris, Hong Kong, New York and Los Angeles present a zone dedicated to the season's trends and novelties, as a preview of the Shanghai show.

This coming session welcomes a different type of trend presentation divided into two distinctive parts around 3 color charts.

This newsletter introduces the first part:

WARM

THE WARMS

The idea is to make statement-bold or oversized new silhouettes that can easily transition from day to night.

RESTORATIVE shows a desire for slow fashion, stability, grounded luxury, comfort, and reconnecting to essentials in rich natural fibers suited for cozy outerwear and structured knitwear. It shows an oscillation between what is familiar and what is forward-thinking, silhouettes that balance fluidity with structure. A study of contrasts. This is the home for luxury natural fibers, cashmere, yak, alpaca, angora, and merino. Natural dyed cashmere or merino, or undyed cashmere and yak, precious blends.

INCLUSIVITY speaks of empowerment, creative freedom, and subtle and unexpected associations of colors and materials but with opulence and sophistication, a feeling of dolce vita, bringing pop codes and sophistication together. It redefines luxury with simple designs and a slower approach to consumption. It is a trend for home textiles, redefining luxury in the home, merging with fashion items in a mix of luxurious and technical fibers that outline comfort and modern style.

VERSATILITY mixes retro charming memories with contemporary constructions, blending lingerie formalwear, outerwear and sport-inspired elements. An optimistic direction experimenting with unexpected yet simple silhouettes, comforting pieces with a twist, and a balance between retro charm and modern technological advancements. Artificial Intelligence enters the dialogue for unforeseen shapes or details in knits. A more modern dynamic approach to design, with complex knit structures, color blocks and vintage-inspired elements, mixing precision and creative freedom.
